Hey there, squad, how are you?

Gah-n-o-kah-n-yu!
Gah who in the what now?

Oh, I forgot. You abandoned coherent language in order to conform to the dreams of civilization.

No, just had food in my mouth.

To illegal immigrants everywhere

To the victims of the green scare

www.greenscarse.org

This document is to be considered copyright 2006 Strangers In A Tangled Wilderness by anyone who respects the concept of intellectual property. We don't.

Strangers@riseup.net
http://mage.music.manifestor.org

The Super Happy Anarchist Fun Pages!! #7

Featuring:
★ Liberal Reform
★ Dirty Dishes
★ Amsterdam

Kill cops not people

"Peace" sign, not "F-you" sign

Free!
http://magpie.manifestor.org

As many of the people who have emailed me seeking additional copies of SHARP have noticed, I can be kind of flakey about getting copies printed and mailed. And due to Stranger's insistence on copies remaining free, very few zine distros have picked up the project. So here's where I encourage you to support our project (no, not monetarily) by making copies and giving them away. You get 5 punk points per copy. Also, issues #1-5 are now online as printable PDFs.

Plus, the first Strangers' released album, "No Gods, No DJs" by Attack Attack is online.

We would love new content, from albums to zines, for the Strangers In A Tangled Wilderness project, although we are a fairly picky bunch of folks.

Strangers@riseup.net
For questions, subscriptions, etc.

Hey Kids! I'm Radice the lawyer and today I'm going to explain conspiracy laws.

Now, if you're like most of us, you might have thought that the USA operated under the pretense of free speech.

But conspiracy is committed when someone does two different legal things, which, when combined, become illegal.

...lets say you call your friend and say "We should go shoplifting together!" That's legal.

...but if afterward, you go download information about anti-shoplifting devices, you can both be charged with conspiracy.

Which, by the way, is a felony, even when the discussed crime is a misdemeanor.

This isn't a joke.

#Actually, Radice is not a lawyer, but is instead a cartoon character. Heed advice accordingly.

Stop being so lazy. The opposite of "lazy" is "industrious."
In the Netherlands...

The commission for the arts has declared that "a house is not a home without a piano." Therefore, all new squats will require a bed, table, chair, and piano.

In other news, the city is installing metal shutters in every piano store.

Damn.

Okay, nuff said. We got the piano up to the first floor. You can send the pigs up now.

Let's see... bed, table, chair, piano... where's the walrus?

The walrus?

Yeah, didn't you hear? You need a bed, table, chair, piano and walrus to live here.

Oh, right, hold on.

Okay officer, we got our walrus.

That's a plush walrus.

Yeah, well our "table" is a milk crate.

Hmmm... good point.

Down with form! Down with rendering.

What are you doing?

I'm protesting representational art.

The Christian church did this in the dark ages. The cubists did it 100 years ago...

Damn.

Why do you want to protest representational art anyway?

I figured we needed something new to break the mold.

I'm already against pretty much everything.

How about measurement?

It standardizes society.

Silverware?

It's a specialized tool.

Coffee?

Ever see coffee grow in this business?

Damn, you primitives really have all the bases covered, don't you?

I don't appreciate your use of sports analogies.

Soon, the police station will be on fire.

Wait! What about all the people inside?

Whose did you come from?

Well, really I'm an echo of the response to total alienation and normality in the...

No no no... who invited you?

Peace out! I'll catch you cats in the groovy future!
Ugh, I'm sick of coming home to a kitchen full of dirty dishes.

It's like people think we have a maid or something...

Say, where's our couch-surfers?

What good will it do to throw that fuck against that cop? It won't change the system; it will just land you in jail.

If you want to change the system, you have to work within the system...

What are you doing? Protecting myself; this dream sucks.

This isn't a dream...

Oh hell.

I think it's time to put up one of those kitchen signs.

What like "Anarchy only works when you do your dishes"?

Or maybe "Society needs a clean plate, you need to clean your plate."

If you want a housekeeper, join the bourgeoisie.

Yeah.

Hey! Stop that! You'll alienate the masses!

How's the breeze?

Can you see your house from up there?

Wha?

The moral highground. I hope it's nice, cause everyone down here thinks you're a jerk.

Later...

There is someone behind you with a knife, and they will stab you if you don't do your own dishes.

I thought you decided against a sign?

I don't hear running water...

Where did you get that black eye?

I don't ask.

Did that liberal punch you?

I told you not to ask.

You got punched by a pacifist, you get punched by a pacifist, nya nya.

Tell it to the world, why don't you.
excuse me, Mr. Liberal, would you like to sign my petition?

I took you advice to heart, we need to change the law, not eradicate it. Now that's more like it, of course I'll sign.

"we, the undersigned, seek the reform ofestyle weaponry law to allow for smoke, bricks, and other manner, animate and inanimate, burning or not, to be thrown at law enforcement personnel."

great news, comrades, we managed to push the law through with only minor concessions.

what kind of "minor concessions"?

well, you can throw flowers.

flowers?

nope.

hell.

would you like to buy a shift to support our reformist cause?

"hacking rocks at cops is not a crime."

all proceeds go directly to support material and alcoholic costs.

well, our campaign is over, and all our liberal buddies are celebrating.

but we drink to forget.

what are we going to do with 200 "support your right to injure the police" T-shirts?

sigh.

take that, pig!

that liberal is throwing rocks at cops.

yeah, now it's civil disobedience, not violence.

liberal reform rules.

so if I start a fire and it destroys 6 trucks, that's 6 counts of arson?

plus you can get 30 years for using an incendiary device in an arson.

how else do they expect us to commit arson?

it's almost like they want us to turn to hurting people instead of property.