You know, without electricity you couldn't play punk music.

That's not true... we'd still have our accordions.

Hi! I finished another comic! #8 took so long, but #9 was much easier. I've been around amazing, inspiring people of late. Most of this issue is about the divide between Eco- and Class-Anarchists, a divide which, honestly, baffles me. I hereby challenge every Red Anarchist to read "Endgame" by Derrick Jensen, and every Green Anarchist to pay more attention to matters of class.

Now that I've annoyed half my audience, here is where I encourage everyone to make and distribute copies of The Super Happy Anarcho Fun Pages. I hate doing mailings, but I hate the idea of an online culture replacing one of physical zines. That's why I get a website where you can download zines to print out, music to listen to. We're also looking for good zines and bands to support. Everything on our site can be downloaded for free, of course, owing to our overwhelming disinterest in money.

Enough rambling.

2012 is 5 years away, what do we do till then?

Well, we've got to get the word out.

Flying. You're talking about flying for the revolution with a specific date?

It seems so simple. And yet, do-able.

Actually, no.

It's worth a shot.

And it seems like something that both kids and grownups can get behind...

And there's a very real chance we'll all just end up in jail or dead.

And it seems like little kids and grownups can get behind...

And there's a very real chance we'll all just end up in jail or dead.

So my paper is titled "For metal to live, Nu-Metal must die." And it starts out, "New kids, who would otherwise get into Metal, die sucked into Nu-Metal..."

"For Anarchy to live, Nu-Metal must die: No w Kids, who would otherwise get into Anarchy, die sucked into Nu-Metal, genius!"

What's the catch?

Well, we actually have to organize communities under the principles...
what would your "after the rev" world be like?

hey, just so you know, this deer lived free before. i hunted it.

okay? you mean that you don't care that i'm eating meat?

nope, with the end of animal husbandry, i don't care what you eat.

oh joy of joys!

one widget, two widgets, three widgets...

10 more widgets! assembled here at our worker-owned widget factory!

uhm... what are we going to do with all these useless widgets?

that is for the workers council to decide!

there! the last CEO has been strong armed by the guts of the last politician! humanity is free at last.

wmm... there has to be somebody left to kill.

sigh. i just don't know what to do with myself.
Let's see, I've got enough acres for bread, and all the bore pumped vegetables are coming along nicely...

And I've spent like four hours today picking up parking lots so we can grow more food...

So, while my bread is baking in my wood burning stove, I might as well play some Mario Bros. on the NES I hooked up to the solar panels.

Black beer boot bleep.

SMASH!

Hey! What are you doing?

Smashing your television with a sledgehammer.

But this is my post-rev fantasy!

I know, and this is mine.

Your plan for after the revolution is to go around with a sledgehammer to stop people from playing the emulators that they've hooked up to solar panels?

Yup.

Geez.

I also ripped up your garden. Agriculture is why civ.

How do we do?

A little more to the left, then?

White house lawn.

Yup.

I'll go get another SUV.
Knock, knock
Oh crap! It's the feds!

You go get the guns,
I'll stall them.

Uh... nobody's home?

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Nice shooting, love-pants.

Anything for your sweet face.

What are you doing?
Waiting for you to say something nice.

Same.

You know, having these cops buried under the floorboards is a lot like "the tell-tale heart"...

Only instead of feeling guilty when, in my mind, I can hear their hearts beating, I just get all giddy.

Have you seen my alarm clock?

You're better off without it.

Hey, I came up with a good name for your green-anarchist magazine... "Wolf-cries!"

Blank stare

Get it? Cause you're always claiming that collapse is imminent...

Oh, I get it. It's just not funny.

You should call your red-anarchist magazine "boring meeting notes."

Chicken little.

Vanguardist.

The lines are drawn.

I made a shirt for you...

"Enemy of the people."

Yeah, well, I wrote "speciesist" on your forehead while you were asleep.

I know. I saw it in the mirror this morning because, unlike you, I actually brush my teeth.
Check it out! You can buy a tank for only like 3500 evos.

Wow! That's like 5000 books! That's less than a car! Sweet!

Hrm... can't afford a car either.

Yeah, tanks are dumb anyway.

Totally. Sigh.

Uh-huh.

You shelled the anarchist union hall?

But you don't even believe in technology?

Don't give me that "can't use the master's tools to dismantle the master's house" crap. A tank is a great tool for dismantling a house.

If I had a tank, I'd lay siege to city hall and demand the dissolution of governments. That's not true. If it was true, you would have done everything in your power to make that happen.

There's a reason that you don't have many friends. You know that, don't you?

Where did all this meat come from?

Don't worry, it's freegan.

So you blew up the factory farm while all the animals were still inside?

Live free or die, that's what I always say.

Usually, people take that as impetus to "live free."

Well, better dead than domesticated.

Grumble grumble... tell me I won't bomb city hall, will they?

Stupid syndicalists! I'll show them.

Take that, union hall!

Where did you get the money for the tank, anyhow?

And you didn't think that maybe you would get caught for fraud?

I figured I would get caught for shelling half the town and then parking the tank out front.

I stole some yuppie's credit card.

Umm... no... good point.
